

THE UNIVERSITY of ADELAIDE

Boomers- Riding the Long Wave – ‘Wicked Problems’ and ‘Opportunity Spaces’

AGEING AND LIVING WELL THINK TANK AND INNOVATION COLLABORATIVE

9-11 November 2015, Crowne Plaza, Hindmarsh Square, Adelaide

Registrations are now open

Introducing and outlining opportunities for entrepreneurship & innovation in practice, policy and research actions to facilitate ageing well and aged care.

A collaboration between the University of Adelaide’s School of Nursing, and the Entrepreneurship, Commercialisation and Innovation Centre (ECIC). The Ageing and Living Well Think Tank and Innovation Collaborative is chaired by Professor Alison Kitson and Professor Noel Lindsay.

The aim of the Think Tank will be to collaboratively develop innovative solutions to complex problems impacting healthy ageing policy and practice on topics such as finance; technology; lifestyle; healthcare informatics; medicine, gender and ageing; careers and work; the built environment; resource planning; person-centred care.

We are calling for participants, especially those who are:

- > working in healthcare but struggling to cope with demand for their services
- > budding entrepreneurs looking for opportunities to innovate and meet the needs of older boomers
- > dealing with how best to enable healthy ageing and living well for older people in your community
- > in academe, community services, business or government.

For full details on registration go to:
ecic.adelaide.edu.au/connect/ageing-well-think-tank/

Early bird rates until 30 September

Convened by the School of Nursing, and Entrepreneurship, Commercialisation and Innovation Centre.

adelaide.edu.au

Keynote Speakers

Professor Trish McDougall-Covin

William L. Haerberle Professor of Entrepreneurship, and Director for the Institute for International Business Kelley School of Business, Indiana University, USA

Dr Kathleen McCormick

Practitioner, researcher, and policy executive in health informatics, bioinformatics, and gerontology specialist, USA

Mr Peter Inge

Joint Managing Director of the Zig Inge Group, the owner of Prospect Hill Village, Victoria

Mr John Corcoran

Chairman of Russell Kennedy Lawyers and a Law Institute of Victoria Business Law Accredited Specialist

Professor Alison Kitson

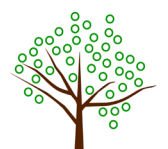

Dean of Nursing and Head of School of Nursing, University of Adelaide

Professor Noel Lindsay

Director of Entrepreneurship, Commercialisation and Innovation Centre, University of Adelaide

Program Highlights

- > Welcome dinner and hypothetical
- > Launch of the Active Ageing Innovation Collaborative
- > 20 interactive workshops
- > Research and innovation debate at SAHMRI
- > Encore Expo: Active Ageing
- > Technology Expo: Assisted Living
- > International and national keynotes

Ageing Well
Opportunities & Innovation